

PRINCETON IN ISHIKAWA

日本語夏期講座

June 1 - July 27, 2019

Japanese Language Program

- PII is an eight-week intensive Japanese language program offering second- and third-year Japanese courses in Kanazawa, Ishikawa prefecture, one of the most beautiful and historic cities in all of Japan.
- Participants who successfully complete the program receive credit for two courses, the equivalent of one year of Japanese language study from Princeton University.
- Students live with local families while in the program. Living with a Japanese family provides students with a unique opportunity to practice and improve their communication skills as well as to experience firsthand the Japanese way of life.

Internship Program

- Students who complete the language program successfully may be eligible to return to Ishikawa the following summer to work in a paid internship position. Ishikawa prefecture annually offers three internships to former PII students. Those selected for this program serve as interns at major companies in the Ishikawa region.
